RICE BOWLS

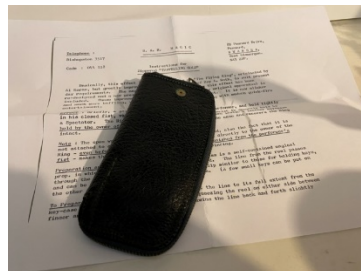

Two finely finished brass bowls presented to the public, presented as empty, and then interjected to prove that this is indeed the case. The artist takes one of the empty bowls and fills it with rice, which he flattens with his baguette. The other bowl is turned over and placed on top of the rice bowl. It is important to note that this bowl is really empty when it is turned over.

When separating the bowls, spectators are surprised to see that the amount of rice has doubled because the bowl overflows. The other bowl is again shown and makes back-and-forth movements. Once again, he turned over the rice bowl and the artist makes them move back and forth again. Once the rice is removed, it has completely disappeared and the bowls are overflowing with water, which continues to increase as water is poured from one bowl to another.
